OREGON LEGISLATURE

Fourth Regular Session

Senate.

WEDNESDAY Sept. 26 1866

The roll being called the absentees were Messrs Cartwright, Cornwell, Crawford, Cyrus, Ford, Hinsdale, Huston, Jeffries and Miller—10. No quorum present.

On motion of Mr STERNS a call of the Senate was ordered.

Messrs Cartwright, Crawford, Cyrus, Ford and Cornwell appeared and the further call was dispensed with.

Prayer by Rev. Mr Cressman.

On motion of Mr CARTWRIGHT the Senate took a recess till 11 o'clock.

11 O'CLOCK A. M.

The Senate was called to order. No quorum present. Mr STERNS appeared making a quorum.

Mr FORD presented the petition of citizens of Umatilla county asking relief for the widow and children of —— Hart, who was killed while assisting to arrest certain parties, one of whom is now in the penitentiary. It was referred to a select committee consisting of Messrs Ford, Powell and Jeffries.

REPORTS FROM STANDING COMMITTEES

Mr CARTWRIGHT from Committee on Elections made a report of which the following is a synopsis. The sitting member has filed his answer to the petition of the contestant denying the allegations of petitioner and setting up certain facts upon proving which he relies to show his right to a seat. He also asks for time to enable him to procure the evidence to substantiate such facts. The only question which the Committee has been called upon to decide is whether the sitting member shall be allowed time to procure his evidence. The contestant proposed to submit to the Committee as evidence what purported to be the original poll books of the late election in Grant county. Contestant's counsel admitted that these books had been obtained and brought here by one of the contestants and that they had been in the hands of the contestants since they were obtained from the Clerk of Grant county. The returns from the five precincts rejected by the Clerk are so informal upon their face, and so illegally returned being void of nearly every requirement of the election laws of this State that the committee conclude they cannot review any of the facts stated above do otherwise than report adversely to the introduction of said poll books as evidence. If they are part of the county records the clerk has been guilty of a gross violation of duty in allowing them to go out of his possession and particularly so in placing them in the hands of private parties. Though these papers may not be considered evidence they may be so connected with parol evidence which contestant can get in Grant county as to be of value to him but as the case now stands both parties are without legal evidence. Contestant desired to introduce copy of notice of contest served on sitting member in the 1st of July. Committee is clearly of opinion that there is no law regulating contests for seats in the Legislature and that the first legal notice the sitting member had was the petition of the contestant presented to the Senate on the 11th inst. and that the rights of the sitting member are in no way affected by the notice served in July. [NOTE.—The answer and an affidavit of the sitting member are made part of the report.—REPORTER.]

The committee offered as a part of their report a resolution providing 1st. To reject the poll books as evidence. 2d That the sitting member and the contestant each have time to take testimony as it is taken in cases of equity and to make return of it in ninety days.

Mr HUSTON from same committee made a minority report of which the following is a copy:

As one of the Committee on Elections I cannot concur in the report of the majority of the committee in relation to the contested seat of Grant county for the following reasons. The sitting member asks for time to go and procure evidence in Grant county to establish the fact that he is entitled to his seat. To allow this will be virtually abandoning the contest during this session. Again the reasons given in the answer to the petition of Mr Dribblesby are insufficient in my mind to convince any one that such time should be given, for it is evident that the foundation upon which the answer rests is untenable and the proposition impossible. The answer first denies that John E. Dribblesby was lawfully elected then denies that he received a majority of votes then alleges that the canvassers did comply strictly with the law of the State in canvassing the votes returned then alleges that Dribblesby is not a citizen or was not a citizen of Grant county as required by law and therefore not eligible to the office of Senator. Therefore if either of the aforesaid counts can be established the sitting member is entitled to his seat, and as the minority thinks one or the other of these counts can be substantiated therefore it is respectfully submitted that time should not now be granted until an effort is made before the Senate to establish one of the counts cited in the answer of the sitting member.

Mr HINSDALE, from Committee on Commerce reported back S. B. No. 5—relating to pilot commissioners at Umpqua river—with an amendment to change date from 1860 to 1864, and a recommendation that it pass.

Mr JOHNSON from the Judiciary Committee, reported back S. B. No. 6—relating to foreclosure of chattel mortgages—with amendment and a recommendation that it pass.

REPORT FROM THE SELECT COMMITTEE

Mr PALMER, from committee to whom was referred the resolution to inquire into the report that Mr Caldwell had ceased to be an inhabitant of Josephine county reported the same back, together with the evidence they had taken.

PROPOSITIONS AND MOTIONS

Mr PYLE moved to adopt the resolution reported by the majority of the Committee on Elections. [The Grant county case.]

Mr HUSTON. I am opposed to this motion. I have submitted a minority report which contains some of my reasons for resisting the adoption of the majority report but I have other reasons. First, the answer of the sitting member to the petition denies that Mr Dribblesby was eligible to a seat, at the time of the election. Second it denies that contestant received a majority of the votes. If the gentleman can establish either of those propositions, I am willing he should retain his seat. Again the answer says that he, Sterns, would have received thirty eight more votes than he did had it not been for a riot at Olive Creek precinct. If he received a majority of the votes why does he make the allegation that but for a riot he would have received thirty-eight more? This is no reason for granting time. Then again he says if the votes had been lawfully counted, he would have received 222 majority. He seems to have forgotten that he had previously stated in his answer that the canvassers had strictly followed the law. He states that in certain precincts he would have received so many votes if the election and canvass had been legally conducted. [Here the speaker enumerated the precincts and votes as in the answer.] How he should know that in these precincts he would have received the number of votes mentioned and not be provided with any evidence here is a mystery to me. To attempt to find those voters now would be perfectly useless. I have been in the mines and I know that miners are constantly moving about. Those men are probably now scattered.

The speaker was interrupted by a committee from the House—Messrs Olney, Whiteaker and Ross.

Mr OLNEY announced that the committee had been deputed by the House, to invite the Senate into joint convention for the purpose of electing an United States Senator.

Mr HUSTON. These men are scattered everywhere. If time be taken to hunt them up the trump of Gabriel will blow before the evidence can be got here.

Mr DOLPH moved to lay the resolution on the table which prevailed—15 to 6.

Mr JEFFRIES moved that the Senate accept the invitation of the House to meet in joint convention, at 12 M. Carried.

S. B. No. 5 relating to pilot commissioners at Umpqua, was taken up and the amendment proposed by the committee adopted.

On motion of Mr CARTWRIGHT the Senate took a recess till five minutes of twelve.

11 55 A. M. Senate met and on motion of Mr JOHNSON proceeded to meet the House in joint convention. (See House proceedings.)

12:55 P. M. The Senate returned to its chamber and immediately adjourned.

There were no proceedings in the Senate in the afternoon except to meet in joint convention with the House and to adjourn upon returning to the Senate chamber.

House.

Long before the House was called to order all the unoccupied space about the hall was filled by anxious spectators.

House was called to order pursuant to adjournment. All present. Prayer by Rev. B. Leslie of the M. E. Church. Minutes read and approved.

Mr OLNEY moved that a committee of three be appointed to wait upon the Senate and invite that body to join the House in joint convention at 12 o'clock M. for the purpose of going into an election of United States Senator. The motion prevailed, and Messrs Olney, Ross, and Whiteaker were appointed.

On leave the committee retired and shortly afterwards returned with information that the Senate would accept the invitation.

Mr WHITEAKER presented a petition from A. P. Dennison representing that he had been appointed to recruit a company of cavalry for the General Government during the administration of Governor Whiteaker and that as such officer he had incurred an indebtedness to the amount of $55 25 which still remains unpaid and asking provision be made by the State for the immediate payment of the same.

Mr HINDMAN offered a resolution authorizing the Governor to call out the militia if necessary or volunteer force to protect the citizens of Eastern Oregon. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr FOUDRAY moved that the committee recently created on mines and mining interests be made a standing committee. Carried.

A QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE.

Mr OLNEY. In order that the literary performance which I hold in my hand may not pass into history disfigured by an erroneous statement of facts alleged to have occurred in this House I ask a moment's indulgence to correct the error. The statement is that "When the hour for the regular order upon the Grant county case had arrived Olney asked the courtesy of the House for a few minutes to enable the chairman of the Committee on Elections to complete the writing of his report which he said was nearly finished. The courtesy was granted without objection and at the expiration of the time granted the order of the day was called for when they raised the point of order and argued that the order of the day having been passed by the consent of the House it could not be resumed without a suspension of the rules which requires a two-thirds vote."

On the occasion alluded to a member shortly before ten o'clock called for a report from the committee. I stated that the chairman was writing it and it would be ready in a few minutes. Soon afterwards the Speaker announced that the hour had arrived which the House had appointed for the committee to report. The chairman of the committee instantly rose and reported. I objected to any further action and took the position that when the committee had reported all was done which the House had ordered to be done at that time and that the subject must now take its turn in the regular order of business, unless the House by a two-thirds vote should take it up out of its order. There was no waiting after the hour was announced by the Speaker. The point was passing of the case, not objection to returning back to it. The only objection was that its consideration had not been made the special order and was not entitled to precedence over other business. The House knows whether the newspaper report of this correct or not.

Mr HELM thought the report in the Herald correct and that there were many things which went to make up the information on record of the House in the Grant county case, which gentlemen on the other side of the House would like to have expunged.

Mr OLNEY arose to reply. During his remarks the Senate was announced and on taking the Chair the President of the Senate called to order at 12 o'clock M.

THE JOINT CONVENTION TO ELECT A U. S. SENATOR

The PRESIDENT read the law regulating the election of United States Senators. The journal of the Senate relating to the action of that body on the Senatorial election was read by the clerk, from which it appeared that A. C. Gibbs having received a majority of four was the choice of the Senate for United States Senator.

The CLERK of the House then read the House journal relating to the action of that body on the election of Senator from which it appeared that no one had received a majority.

The PRESIDENT announced this failure to elect and directed the joint convention to proceed to ballot for Senator in Congress.

Mr DOLPH nominated A. C. Gibbs of Portland.

Mr HELM nominated J. S. Smith of Salem.

Mr BAYLEY nominated B. Simpson from Polk county.

Mr COCHRAN nominated J. W. Nesmith of Polk county.

On first ballot the vote stood as follows:

For A. C. Gibbs—Messrs Brown, Cartwright, Cranston, Dolph, Donnell, Hinsdale, Johnson, Powell, Palmer, Pyle, Sterns, Watson, Cole, Davis, Day, Garlick, Garrett, Gingles, Herman, Hindman, Lamson, Laughlin, Locey, Melvin, Micklin, Olney, Parris, Roland, Starkweather, Upton, Witzel, Mr Speaker and Mr President—33.

The result of the third ballot was the same except that Messrs Dodge and Hunsaker voted for Nesmith, and Mr White voted for Corbett.

The result of the fourth ballot was the same as the second except that Mr Hendershott voted for Col. Bickle.

On motion of Mr ROSENHEIM, the convention adjourned to 2 o'clock P. M.

After the retirement of the members of the Senate, on motion of Mr LOCKHART at 1 o'clock P. M. the House adjourned to meet the Senate in joint convention at 2 o'clock P. M.

AFTERNOON

The convention met pursuant to adjournment.

The result of the fifth ballot was Gibbs 31, Smith 30; Simpson 3; Corbett 1; Kelsay 1; Ruckel 1. Mr White having changed to Simpson.

On motion of Mr Herman at 3 10 P. M. adjourned by 40 ayes to 29 nays.

The Senate retired and on motion of Mr HELM, the House adjourned.

Shall we have another Rebellion?

How much has the Philadelphia Convention, with all the "brains" which its President declared it to possess done to make treason odious? By the law of the land it is a felonious crime—Doolittle and his followers have worked their best to reduce it to a misdemeanor, and Mr Raymond elaborately treats it as a peccadillo. We ask every man of candor to read all the proceedings of the Convention, and then honestly to determine whether it was not chiefly assembled for the comfort and consolation of the Confederate mourners. There seemed to be but one idea prevalent upon the seats and the platform, and in the atmosphere of the wigwam—the idea of bringing the loyal States, by wheedling, and persuasion, and bullying, to the discharge of what Mr Webster used to call their "disagreeable duties." The tone of the proceedings takes us back ten years. We seem to be living again in a rainy season of compromises. Our minds are excited to disagreeable reminiscence, and our ears are filled with the old familiar drawl of the professional peace-makers. We are to forget the tremendous events of yesterday, the slaughter, the waste and the panic of the war, and only to remember that the assassins of the Republic lamentably failed in their murderous purposes, and are very much to be commiserated for their disappointment. The baffled Confederates are to be treated, upon the whole, rather more benevolently and charitably than the Prodigal Son. They are not only to have excellent veal for dinner and new coats to their backs, and fine rings for their fingers, but they are to be tenderly assured that their little escapade was quite pardonable and is not only forgiven but forgotten. We deny it. The memory of the loyal land is not quite so short as Dix and Doolittle imagine. The soldiers of the Republic, although dead, yet speak to us. Fine words pay no taxes. Dix and Doolittle move and make motions in a sphere of ideal clemency and poetic graciousness but the people of this country are confronting hard practical realities and have neither taste nor time for indulging in the Philadelphia sentimentalities. We may forgive the sinner, but no dictate of religion requires us to forgive the sin. Dix, Doolittle and Raymond condone and condole in a breath, and, lest the sinner should have qualmish doubts of the plenary remittance of his crime, they assure him that he has been all along an extremely virtuous character. The force of fondness can no further go.

We do not like to speak intemperately, but it really seems to us that the whole tendency of the Convention was to incite another rebellion. Of course we do not mean to deny that there was a modicum of patriotic words and of loyal professions. Some of those members who uttered them were, perhaps, sincere, while others used them as a certain personage sometimes uses the holy scriptures. But all these loyal phrases were but the trimmings of the banquet—the solid pabulum was sympathy with the hard fate of the insurrectionists. "Think how much they must have suffered," says Mr Raymond, with the tears standing in his eyes. Pray, has Mr Raymond just found out that the way of transgressors is hard? Did not his grandmother teach him that in elbow and innocent days? The rebels have had a fine dance, and Mr Raymond thinks it hard to oblige them to pay the piper. He may be assured that if they can dance for nothing they will be at it again before he is much wiser, or even much older. Indeed we do not see why they should not pluck up courage and try once more, when the Philadelphia Convention, scowling at the North and threatening the loyal population, tells the discouraged Confederacy under what circumstances it may again properly resort to criminal violence. Mr Raymond declares that "Americans who live in the South" would be "unworthy citizens of a free country, degenerate sons of a heroic ancestry" should they accept "those laws which Congress has seen fit in the exercise of its constitutional prerogative to enact." When the passage containing this opinion was read, great and emphatic was the cheering and the approbation. The honorable and distinguished member for Maryland cried "Read that again!" and all the little squad of delegates from unreconstructed or half reconstructed States felt in their fiery souls that the rod which had been accustomed to wave sic semper over Union shriekers and Union savers was not yet broken, and did not lose all its magical properties when Gen. Lee surrendered and Mr Davis retired to Fortress Monroe. We congratulate them upon the discovery. All is not lost! There may yet be another and more fortunate rebellion. Why not? Doesn't Mr Raymond tell them so? Does not the Philadelphia Convention tell them so? Is it not put upon record that their continued loyalty, such as it is, very properly depends upon the contingency of legislation which shall be quite agreeable to their sensitive natures? Thus we are no sooner well out of the war than political speculators at the North are inviting the uneasy and the desperate to renew it. This is just what the Philadelphia Convention has done. If it did anything more or better the reporters failed to make note of it.—New York Tribune.

Senate Bill No 3 on Education—Its Economy

The proposed new School Law printed as Senate Bill No 3 provides for a State Board of Education consisting of the Governor, State Superintendent, and one member from each of the Judicial Districts who are to hold an annual session on the 1st of July and special sessions when necessary. The members are to receive for their services the same per diem and mileage as the members of the Legislature. Sessions amounting to twenty days per annum, which will probably be ample for all their duties, will cost not more than $1,000 per annum.

The bill provides for a State Superintendent whose salary and other expenses—as he is required to travel four months in the year to visit schools attend institutes etc.—will hardly be less than $3,200 per annum. The other provisions of the bill for printing blanks, reports, etc. may add $500 or $800 more to the annual expenses.

The county and local district expenses will be much the same as at present. We may estimate that this bill, if it becomes a law, will cost the State at least $5,000 per annum. What will it save the State? Take the item of school books alone. It is made one of the duties of the State Board to establish a State series of text books to be used at least four years in all the public schools of the State. Take now the expense for extra school books because of the great variety on the same subject in a single district in this county. In a school of 35 pupils I found 12 classes in arithmetic. Enquiring why they could not be combined at least in six classes I found that different books and different editions of the same book prevented this at present, but the interest of both pupils and teachers requires this to be done. It will, however, cost the parents probably the price of twelve new arithmetics worth at least $9 to bring these classes together as they should be. There are three classes in grammar using three books, two by one author and one by another. One grammar must be excluded or the time of the teacher will be wasted. This will cost a dollar or two more. If any of these families move into a neighboring district they will find a different series of school readers used there, and the new purchases will cost from two to five dollars. If a family comes into this district the expense for a new series of books is liable to be the same. The expense for new geographies, histories, algebras, which might be saved, were there uniformity, can hardly be less than five dollars per annum to the school. We may safely estimate the annual extra cost of books for a school of thirty five pupils, above what would be needed were the books uniform, to be twenty-one dollars, or sixty cents per scholar. Again in the public schools of this county three series of readers are used, six series of arithmetics, seven grammars, two of geography, two of histories, two of philosophies and several of these varieties are found in the same school. In order to make any proper classification, some of the pupils must buy new books, or the teacher's time must be wasted upon a multitude of classes. When new books are bought at the option of teacher, scholar or parent, more varieties are often introduced. Viewed in this way, it is evident that the increased expense for books, which might be prevented by using a uniform series, is fully sixty cents per annum to every pupil. We have an average attendance of 11,144 pupils in the public schools of Oregon, and 26,110 in the State, between the ages of four and twenty years. The pupils who attend our schools regularly, spend for needless varieties of books annually, $6,685 40, and if the whole number of proper age attended, the extra cost would be $15,666. Many of these do attend corporate schools, and incur this expense.

It is quite evident that the economy of the new bill, in the saving of school books, will compensate all the cost of its other provisions. Besides this, we may add the saving of books, once bought, which can be transmitted from the older to the younger members of the same family. Moreover, we have the superior grading or classification of the scholars, which allows the teachers to devote twice or three times as much time to each class or study. Many other obvious advantages will accrue from this one thing. If it be asked how you can attain uniformity without a serious loss of school books already purchased, I reply that while some loss must occur at first, it may be reduced very much by a careful collation by the Board of Education, of the school books now used and most approved in the State. The differences between several of the common series of books are not very numerous or very important. Either of the Series of readers or arithmetics could be used with good success for four or even eight years more. Let the Board ascertain by circular, what books are used in every district of the State in the corporate or private schools, and what ones directors, teachers and county superintendents prefer.

When this mass of facts is collected and classified, it will be found that two or three series predominate. Other things being equal, the highest on the list can be chosen and the rest laid aside.

In this county, Monteith's geography is found in nineteen districts, Campbell's in one, Sanders' readers in fifteen, and the National, in seven districts, Davies's arithmetic in fourteen, Thompson's in seventeen and Ray's in four. But more pupils have the National readers and Davies's arithmetic than any other. A collation of facts from the whole State might place another series of readers or of arithmetics far ahead on the list of districts, while the largest number of pupils might use a less generally scattered series. The majority of books used as they now are ought certainly to be one element in the choice of a series.

The State will gain money as it elevates the character of its public schools as every district which now has a good school gains in the number of inhabitants and its taxable property. Families from abroad will come and remain with us if we improve our public schools. Teachers will make their office a profession and our children will be advanced farther and more regularly than they have been in the public schools if the State adopts a liberal policy respecting them. If your district school can give your children as good advantages as they will get in any private school or academy away from home, you will save $50 or $100 annually per family to improve your district school. This can be done. It has been done in several of our Northern States. The public schools of Boston, New York, Chicago and San Francisco are the best schools in those cities and the richest families send to them for this reason. The public schools of those several States take the same comparatively high rank. The same thing may be true of Oregon. For this purpose the State has received large donations of land from Congress. For this purpose 500,000 acres were set apart by the late Legislature.

Judging from these and other facts the expenditures required by the proposed law need be no loss but may be a saving to the State.

FRIDAY MORNING, SEPT. 28, 1866.

An Indian Policy.

The disposition and treatment of the Indian tribes in the interior is a matter which the whole country is interested in. This State is in a condition to feel about as deep an interest in the subject as any other portion of the country. Gen. Pope, who, we believe, still commands the department which embraces the great plains of upper Missouri and Platte rivers, gives the plan or policy which he proposes to adopt, and which he sums up in these few words: "I propose, when once the Indians are collected together to be placed on a reservation, to remove them entirely from the country in which they have lived, to carry them to the rear instead of the front of advancing emigration; to march them toward instead of from the sources of cheap supplies, to place them in the vicinity of society and of institutions well organized and well administered, where there is a sound public sentiment, and 'where the laws are equally enforced against all offenders.'" This sounds very well, but it would be safe to venture the prediction that the project will never be a success. The plan pre-supposes the capability of the Indians for improvement and civilization, and contemplates their assimilation to, and absorption by organised society—both of which notions are more idle theories of those who expect great good to come out of the "noble red man." Placed in "the vicinity of society and institutions well organized," they would only hang on as a lot of loafers and beggars, made still more wretched by the contrast of their surroundings.

But before this plan could be tried with our Indians, it would be necessary to collect them together; and to collect them, it would be necessary to organize military expeditions to capture and subjugate them. This last thing is what must be done, and the quicker it is accomplished, the sooner will we have a solution of this perplexing question. The more that are killed in the process, the better. It will be all the easier to control the remainder.

The great majority of Indians repudiate labor as an unmanly occupation. There can be no improvement among them unless they will work; and past experience does not give much hope that they can ever be taught the pursuits of industry.

The hostility of the Indians will have to be subdued by force, and then they can take their chances in the midst of an advancing civilization. The idle, vagabond life of the reservation system cannot be perpetuated forever. The greater part of the race now living will soon perish, and the remaining few will probably accommodate themselves to the changed condition of civilization.

A MERCHANT'S OPINION.—R. G. Sneath, President of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, lately delivered a lecture before that body on "the anomalous condition of trade in California." He stated that the commerce of San Francisco had greatly deteriorated during the past ten or twelve years. Many abuses have been allowed to creep in, which, unless soon corrected, will not only have all the force that long-continued custom gives, but will eventually prove the ruin of all. It was calculated at the East that 65 ⅌ cent. of the merchants were unsuccessful in business. The ratio here is 100 ⅌ cent., and all because there is no legitimacy in the way trade is conducted. At the East, every thing was systematized. There were regular seasons and channels of business. Merchants knew the time and duration of their dull seasons, and could prepare for them and take advantage of them in a little relaxation. Here, every merchant is so jealous of every other merchant, that he does not dare leave his business, even for a day. Each is trying to get an advance over the other, not realising that to secure their individual prosperity is to combine in all legitimate efforts to promote the prosperity of the whole.

AT IT AGAIN.—We should like to be told under what Holofernes the Statesman editor studied composition and rhetoric. We incline to think he is the same who advertises in the Courier to keep a "school where the walls resound in echo to the tyro in debate, prolonged by the soft, tremulous voice of the maiden reading the rounded periods and euphonious words that convey the thoughts of their composition." Take the following from the Statesman as a specimen of that wonderful style:

> And yet we find loyal and once conservative men kneeling with demented zealots before the steaming altars of fanaticism and hugging the very doctrine to their bosoms which all their lives have heretofore rebuked, and against which every holy instinct of their nature was went to rise up in indignation. What insidious imbibition has corroded the foundations of their manhood, we know not.

Sho! This fellow is simply endeavoring, by a concatenation of reproaches, to obligate the tongues of the weelless. That's all he means.

We notice that some of the Copperhead papers sneer at Queen Emma of the Sandwich Islands because she is "tawny." Here is refinement for you. Queen Emma was courteously received in all the Eastern cities, was presented to the President at Washington, and now has the tender of a steamship from the Government to carry her to her home. She is an intelligent Christian woman, and is as worthy as any one; and yet newspapers like the Call of San Francisco think she does not deserve respectful treatment, because she is "nothing but a nigger." If this sneer is not proof of an enlightened, liberal and honorable mind, call upon the most degraded native Sandwich Islander for a better example.

A SPECIMEN "BRICK."—The Copperhead papers are publishing numerous articles from the La Crosse (Wis.) Democrat, written by an individual who calls himself "Brick Pomeroy." The editor of the Carson (Nev.) Appeal knows who this impudent rebel toady is, and thus tells of his dishonorable dismissal from the military service:

> "We know this much of his army record: that like his drunken master, Johnson, he got into the Union army to make what he could out of it, and then betray it; that he was found out a little sooner than Johnson, and was therefore prevented from turning spy and selling his country's flag; that he is only known among army men as a coward, a drunkard and a liar, and that with all these distinctive characteristics he is a worthier and a better man than the brazen sot who disgraces the Presidential chair of the United States. Furthermore, he is a specimen 'brick' of 'my policy' scribblers here and elsewhere."

MISSOURI.—There is much agitation in Missouri, caused by the near approach of the election and the efforts of the returned rebels to regain power. A Leavenworth dispatch of the 31st ult. says:

> Considerable feeling has been produced by the declaration of civil war contained in the Conservative papers against the Union men of Missouri, and the call on rebels to "collect arms and ammunition, organize and drill." The people here generally think they are vitally interested in case of a conflict between loyalty and treason in Missouri, and it would be easy for the State Government to get all the help necessary. Some of the old soldiers are talking of organizing to be ready.

Lucky thing for Bill Barnhart that he was not at his Agency at Warm Springs when the late hostile raid occurred. Had he been there he would have lost his hair, sure. Snakes would have nipped him instead of the old Indian Chief. Bill may thank his stars that he was down here piping for Nesmith at that time. He now owes Nes. a greater debt than ever.

The Kootenai mines are said to be almost wholly abandoned to the Chinese. They have bought about all the mining ground in that locality, and next year, will take the rest.

THAT ADDRESS.—The editor of the Richmond Examiner says that he knows that J. H. Raymond did not write the address of the Philadelphia Convention.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO SEPTEMBER 26.

Soldiers' Convention.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 26.—The city was brilliant last night with processions and other displays. The convention reassembled at 10 o'clock this morning, but there were so many delegates that the hall could not hold them, and there was an hour's delay, during which the best of feeling was manifested. The famous Wisconsin eagle, "Old Abe," spread his wings and the boys cheered him lustily. After quiet was restored the committee on resolutions were ready to report. James Murdock was called for and gave patriotic readings. The heroes of 1812 were introduced, and also the city council of Pittsburg. At half past 1 o'clock Gen. Butler reported the resolutions which were adopted by a rising vote amid much enthusiasm. They must fully endorse Congress, pledge the support of the soldiers to all loyalists of the country, black or white, and give their sympathy to all people everywhere who are struggling for freedom and independence. General Butler was loudly called for and appeared, and argued the question of reconstruction at length. At the close of his address the convention took a recess till 2 o'clock, soon after which an adjournment sine die will probably take place, though most of the body will assemble at the wigwam to-morrow to take part in a great demonstration.

News from the South.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The Tribune's New Orleans special correspondent gives the following items: Maximilian has abolished the maritime prefectures as an unnecessary expense. Regular troops having been withdrawn from the towns, the magistrates are called upon to organize home guards for their protection.

The Estafette announces the resignation of Gen. Hunt of the command of an Austrian regiment, and his return to Europe.

There are indications of joint and vigorous operations shortly on the part of the Imperialists. It is reported that the Liberals have committed terrible retaliations in Monterey.

GALVESTON, Sept. 25.—The white soldiers at Brenham, Texas, are constantly under arms, fearing an attack from a mob. It is reported that the whites from the neighboring counties are concentrating at that point, determined to make an example of these troops against whom they claim to have sufficient provocation. The probabilities are that all available troops throughout the State will be ordered to Brenham, to dispose of these gatherings.

Commercial Report.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The Post says Wall street is very dull, and money unchanged.

Wheat is quoted 3@5c higher, with only limited supply; corn 1@2c higher; flour 10@20 higher. Government stocks are steady.

The steamer Bremer arrived this morning with $111,000 specie. There was no export of specie to-day.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The flour market is less active but no change of note has occurred. Wheat was irregular and weak, closing at 2 15@2 18 for No. 1 spring; corn was fairly active but somewhat unsettled, closing at 63c.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Gen. Dix to-day appeared before the District Attorney and executed bonds as naval officer of the port of New York.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—No cable news and no explanation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Advices by the City of London indicates that there is much anxiety throughout England in regard to crops, owing to wet weather. Similar reports come from France and Germany. The harvest in Russia was abundant. Heavy orders for grain had been sent there.

HALIFAX, Sept. 26.—The steamer Cuba brings Liverpool dates to the 15th. On that day new winter wheat was quoted at 11s@11s 9d; red spring 10s 6d@11s 3d; corn, mixed, at 27s 9d; yellow 27s@28s 6d. American flour 25s@29s.

The weather continued wet and unsettled, and the corn market continued to advance all over the country.

FROM MONTANA.

We clip from the Post of the 8th inst:

THE ELECTION.

The supreme Court of the United States will decide whether or not the action of some of the voters upon last Monday was a reality or a farce. Thousands of citizens who sustain the views of the Judges of this Territory, regard the Legislature as an illegal body, and declined to compromise themselves by going to the polls. The result cannot be claimed as a victory to either party, although the Democrats, having no regular opposition, elected their candidates with ease. Only one matter was settled: The Philadelphia Convention has not affected the policy of the Democrats of Montana. They refused to affiliate with any Republicans that "stand by" the President, and their organ, in referring to the conduct of some patriotic members, who wished to secure a union of all "Johnson men," speaks in the most sneering style of "the treachery of would-be leaders." If the Democracy of the nation adopt this illiberal course, the friends of President Johnson will be defeated by large majorities in every State.

THE ATCHISON LODE.

We had the pleasure of a call from our esteemed friend, Mr. Coggshell, one of the fortunate owners of this property, who showed us several fine specimens. It was discovered in 1864, by Messrs. Crawford and Farron. At that time Mr. Gilbert assayed a ton of the quartz, which produced $2,250 in gold to the ton, and there was silver in addition to this. A tunnel about one hundred and fifty feet in length has been excavated in the side of the hill, which is chiefly composed of rock. A shaft has been sunk to the depth of twenty five feet. Every analysis that has been made shows that this lead promises to equal, if not surpass, the richness of the celebrated Comstock mine in Nevada. It is located about two miles west of our city, and we understand that a mill will be erected upon it in the course of a few months.

TELEGRAPH.

While taking a walk up Van Buren street, yesterday, we saw some men at work digging holes in the ground, and upon inquiring, ascertained that the work was being done by order of Agent Creighton, for the Telegraph Company. We learned further, that the holes were all dug from this place to a point within one hundred and twenty miles of Salt Lake City, and that next week the work of putting up the poles and wire will commence. This being the case, we may reasonably expect to have dispatches here direct from the Atlantic States as early as the middle of the next month.

STATE ITEMS.

The Astoria Marine Gazette has been discontinued. The press and office go to Oregon City. The Gazette had an existence of a little over two years.

Few immigrants, as we learn from the Walla Walla Statesman, have stopped in Walla Walla Valley this fall. The greater part of them are coming down to the Willamette Valley.

The Teachers of Douglas county assembled at Roseburg Sept. 1st, for the organization of a County Teacher's Association, and chose Rev. T. F. Royal President; Clark Smith, Secretary; and G. B. Kuykendall Cor. Secretary for the ensuing year. The following persons were selected as speakers for the next meeting, which is to be held at the Umpqua Academy, Wilbur, Oct. 13th, 1866: J. H. Rodgers A Standard of Correctness; T. F. Royal—Primary Education; A. R. Lathrop,—; Churchill,—Parental Co-operation in School; G. B. Kuykendall—; G. B. Yale—; C. Smith—The Teacher's Assistance. All the teachers in the county are invited to be present and participate in the discussions. Signed by Clark Smith, Secretary.

Both Sides of the Question.

The annexed paragraphs are just so much better, as they are shorter, than a column of argument on the reconstruction question. Both come from Connecticut, an excellent State for the manufacture of small wares:

THE COPPER AND PEWTER ARGUMENT.

The South may be compared to a lady who has selected a brave cavalier for her husband, and attempted to run off with him, but who has been overtaken by the father and brought home. If the father thought so much of his daughter as to pursue and bring her back, how would he look refusing to let her come into his house, when she had reached it? What sort of consistency would that be?—New Haven Register.

THE GOLDEN ARGUMENT.

He does not refuse to let her come into his house. He only refuses to trust her with the keys, until she gets over her superciliousness. Suppose that when she ran away she took her mother's spoons and silver, pillow cases and napkin rings, and her father's horse, buggy and pocket-book. And suppose that when brought back she would insist on keeping the keys, governing the house, knocking the small children about, kicking the black servant girl and going off again when she felt like it. And suppose that for the sake of peace in the family, the father should accede to these modest demands.—"What sort of consistency would that be?"—Winsted Herald.

SPEECH OF GOV. HAHN.—A Des Moines dispatch of August 28th contains the following:

The Court-house was packed to its utmost capacity last night with people anxious to hear that gallant Southern Unionist, Governor Hahn, of Louisiana. Governor Hahn held the immense audience for two hours and a half. He gave a brief history of affairs in Louisiana since the commencement of the rebellion, and showed up the new tendencies to pronounce open treason produced by the rebellious policy of Andrew Johnson. He laid the impeachment upon Johnson of the responsibility for the murder and massacre of Union men in New Orleans on the 30th of July last.

Among the many bills that passed Congress, is one giving Mrs. Mary Phelps, wife of John S. Phelps, ex-member of Congress from Missouri, $20,000 for services in taking care of sick soldiers' and sailors' orphans.

"LOOK UPON THIS PICTURE," Etc.—ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL, 80 First street, invite the public to call and examine those beautiful PICTURES on exhibition at their GALLERY. The MUSEUM attached to this Establishment contains many curiosities of the taxidermist's skill, and the Mineral Department is full of Geological Wonders.

The Graefenberg Company's Uterine CATHOLICON does not contain one particle of calomel or mercury, and cases of Female Complaints which require other treatment than the Catholicon are extremely rare. It should be used in all cases of Deranged Monthly Periods, Weakness, Irregular Appetite, Nervousness, Headache, Disturbed Sleep, Acid Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion and Pains and Difficulties connected with the Uterine Organs.

THE UTERINE CATHOLICON

Is a most successful remedy for Gravel and all affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, while in the troublesome symptoms attending Pregnancy, the benefits of the Catholicon are most remarkable. It is a perfect restorer of functional and general health from budding womanhood to the turn of life, and those patients who have used the GRAEFENBERG COMPANY'S UTERINE CATHOLICON find difficulty in expressing their thankfulness for the beneficial effects of this wonderful medicine.

Indian Depredations.—Through the kindness of Mr. Edward Beckensto, we are shown a letter from Mr. Samuel L. Brooks, dated the 24th inst. On Wednesday, the [illegible] inst., the Indians made a raid upon the Warm Spring Reservation and succeeded in killing the Chief of the Warm Spring Indians, and in driving off 117 head of horses. The Indians succeeded in getting away with all their plunder, and without the loss of a single scalp. Capt. Smith is very much alarmed for the safety of the settlers there. Something should be immediately done to check these marauders. This last success, in connection with their previous ones, will embolden them to make greater raids. Life and property throughout the whole of our eastern boundary, is daily becoming more insecure. The interests of the State are materially affected by these Indian depredation, not only in the loss inflicted upon our citizens in life and property, but also in the suppression of our northern trade and the development of its great mineral wealth. Without immediate assistance, the country around the Warm Springs must be depopulated. The settlers there have lost, since the 27th of August last, $3,000 worth of stock. We are anxiously awaiting the remedy.

On the Road.—On night before last, as Luna's silvery rays were [illegible] the spires of our beautiful city there might have been seen riding upon the McAdamized road two persons, a lady and a gentleman. They seemed to deeply enjoy the beauty of the scene, the fleeting hours of midnight and the pleasant breezes that came floating o'er the river, when suddenly a change came over the spirit of their dream." A carriage containing two men came dashing down the road; a collision ensued, and resulted in the fright of the woman, and injury of the gent's horse. A wound was inflicted upon the horse by the pole of the carriage entering his breast.

New Mines.—We are informed by Capt. Ankeny, of the discovery of new mines on the Palouse river about 60 miles from Lewiston. On Wednesday the 12th inst. there was great excitement in Lewiston. Everybody except those who could not possibly leave, have abandoned the place and gone to the new diggings. Stores are left without clerks and all are on the "qui vive." The gold is all in be coarse. They are making from $8 to $12 per day to the hand. A cheer for the new Eldorado. We have seen some specimens of the new dust.

Death to Rats.—We were shown last evening an invention designed for the summary capture of rats and mice. It consists of a box divided into two compartments. The bait is attached to a hook at the verge of the end which works upon a pivot. The door or apparent end is turned by a spring. Mr. Rat sees the bait, and pulling upon it detaches that end of the door, and upon turning he is forced to enter the box. It is constructed upon this coercion principle. It was patented by [illegible] and sold to Mr. S. S. Douglas, and can be seen at the store of Capt. Hopkins.

Returned.—Mr. B[illegible] has returned from San Francisco, and is now opening a large stock of new goods received by the Orizaba. Their stock of gents' furnishing goods is very large, and comprises the very best and newest styles. Barman Bros. have made such arrangements that they will be enabled to do the fair thing by their customers and also will receive immediately the latest fashions from the Eastern cities. Messrs. Barman Bros. have now a house at No. 54 Third street, San Francisco, and in addition to their present house, will soon open another in the City of Paris Store.

The Orizaba.—The steamship Orizaba arrived at this city yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. She experienced very rough weather throughout the passage, having head [illegible] all the time. The passengers speak in the highest terms of commendation of the efficiency and courtesy of the [illegible]

Police Court.—In Police Court yesterday Indian Jim was tried for drunk[illegible] and the disturbance of the peace, by [illegible] Indian Mary. Jim failed to potlatch and was sent up for 20 days......H. G. Harley, for drunkenness and [illegible] disorderly conduct in front of the Lincoln House, was fined $10 and costs.

Freight.—The steamer Senator last evening brought down 2 bales woolen goods; 1 bale blankets; 64 bags [illegible]; 140 empty boxes; 151 sacks bacon; and 1,100 quarter sacks of flour.

Postponed.—The Appollo Minstrels have postponed [illegible] until Saturday evening, when they will [illegible] performance, and we hope to see a good house.

[illegible]—The Wilson G. Hunt brought down [illegible] number of passengers from the [illegible] and a number of emigrants.

[illegible] will remember that the pools for the [illegible] will be sold this evening at Oro Fino Hall. Don't fail to attend.

[illegible]—The Base Ball Club meets this evening. [illegible] will play against the club. A full attendance [illegible]

"Royal Families."—The recent European [illegible] knocked out of existence so many [illegible], and smashed such a litter of [illegible], that "royal blood" is suffering [illegible] rate. The Pall Mall Gazette calls [illegible] one feature of it which had escaped [illegible] attention. It wonders where the [illegible] and to-be-crowned heads of Europe "are [illegible] sufficiency of eligible candidates for their [illegible] wives and husbands," and adds: "Al[illegible] supply is barely equal to the demand; [illegible] the new-fangled notions about our 'common flesh and blood,' as applied both to princesses and workingmen, it is hard to imagine what will be the consequence of a large diminution in [illegible] of German royalties. At the present time there are hardly any sovereignties in Europe in which a German prince or princess is not King or Queen, or father-in-law, or mother-in-law, or married to the heir apparent or [illegible] to the crown. It has hitherto, [illegible] been the mission of Germany to supply Europe with royal wives, and what is to happen when a dozen more thrones are abolished, it is difficult to see. When the various Coburgs, who [illegible] keep up a couple of religions in the various branches of their family, so as to be available both for Catholic and Protestant emergencies, have [illegible] to be themselves royal, the [illegible] will be really serious."

A St. Paul Lady Accidentally Killed by her Husband.—A Mr. Hawkes, of St. Paul, Minn., [illegible]tally killed his wife on the morning of August 31st. After breakfast they retired to their room, when Mr. Hawkes took out one of two pistols which he [illegible], and began to clean and oil it, his wife, in the meantime, sitting in a rocking chair engaged in sewing. One of the servants of the house was in and out of the room during the time, and having adjusted the furniture, she had returned with a pitcher of water, and was standing in the corner, a few feet from the chair occupied by Mrs. H., when she heard the report of the pistol, and looking round, saw the lady leap from her seat, exclaiming, "Oh! my God!" and then dropped upon the carpet at her [illegible] feet, weltering in her life blood and expired. The husband, when he realized the terrible [illegible] that had befallen him, was overcome with grief and anguish, and in the midst of his [illegible] woe, nearly lost his reason, and he could with difficulty be restrained from adding a suicide to the fearful drama. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the death of Mrs. Hawkes resulted [illegible]ally, from the discharge of a pistol in the hands of M. A. Hawkes, and that no blame can be attached to him in the matter, except for the careless manner in which the pistol was held.

She had recently arrived from the East and they were said to be devotedly attached to each other.

Pennsylvania Deserters.—Forney has procured a list of all Pennsylvania soldiers reported as deserters during the war, and proposes to have them [illegible] at the polls if they attempt to vote. There are sixty thousand, it is said.

The Sadowa Hat.—The most stylish head dress for [illegible] ever issued is certainly the Sadowa, received per Orizaba at Mensdorffer's. So is also the Citizen, the Express, and a variety of others received by them on [illegible]. In fact, their stock is too varied in late styles to [illegible] one-half of them, and their prices lower than ever before offered in this city. Go and see them at 73 Front street.

Apollo Minstrels at the Theater.—This excellent company gave one of their popular entertainments at Oro Fino Hall on Wednesday evening with great success, and have removed to the Theatre for the advantage of the scenic effects they can produce there. Their entertainment is well worthy the support of ladies and families, as not one word is uttered calculated to give offense to the most fastidious. Mr. Maguire has evidently given up the idea of placing a Theatrical Company before the Portland audience, and if our citizens do not now support a good and chaste entertainment, we are likely to have no [illegible] whatever during the ensuing winter. We [illegible] the Apollo Minstrels do not purpose remaining here beyond three or four nights, therefore let them [illegible] at the Theatre on Saturday evening with a [illegible]

THE GREATEST ATTRACTION.—Persons passing the ST. LOUIS STORE, No. 111 Front street, may [illegible] why so many visit this popular place. It is [illegible] Messrs. KOHN & FISHEL are selling off their large stock of dry goods, consisting of the BEST READY MADE CLOTHING, DRY GOODS, BOOTS AND SHOES, &c., at prices fabulously low. Stop in and see for [illegible]

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY.—MATCHES FOR SALE AT $2 00 PER GROSS, at the OREGON MATCH FACTORY, corner of Seventh and [illegible] streets.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters should be in the possession of everybody in the mining regions. As a preventive of various dangerous diseases to which the gold seeker is liable, it has no superior. While it is quite palatable even as a beverage, it is speedy and powerful in its effects upon the system. In all cases of Diarrhœa, Dysentery, and the pervading fevers consequent upon exposure, the Bitters will be found invaluable as a corrective. No man should enter upon the exposed life of a miner without being provided with Hostetter's preventive of stomach disease, nor should any of those who are now engaged in the occupation, fail to have recourse to the Bitters. Sold by all druggists and dealers everywhere. sep20 HODGE & CALEF, 97 Front St.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.
READ AND REFLECT.

Make sure of Health. "But how?" you ask;
We answer, 'tis an easy task,
Strengthen the Stomach, and sustain
The Nerves, the servants of the brain.
The Liver keep in active play
And regulate, from day to day.
Each organ aid, on Nature's plan,
Brace and refresh the inner man,
And like a watch that's kept in chime
By constant care, with railroad time,
The system's tone and strength renew,
And thereby cheer the spirits, too.
"How," you inquire, "can this be done?
This Victory o'er Disease be won?"
"Hostetter's Bitters," we reply,
Is Health's supreme protection—try!

As a means of regenerating the disordered and enfeebled system, regulating every function of the internal organs, reviving the depressed spirits, invigorating the constitution, and prolonging life, no medicinal preparation, either of the past or the present time, has been so completely and universally successful as

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Against the vapors foul prepare,
That fever-taint the heavy air,
Drink not unmixed the water found
In prairies, woods or marshy ground.
If sedentary toil you ply,
Nature you must assist—or die—
For when debarred from exercise
For artificial aid she cries.
Medicine's grand purpose and intent
Is threatened evil to prevent:
And if you'd be relieved or spared
From ills that crush the Unprepared,
Hostetter's Bitters use—for note
They are the surest antidote.

To set at defiance the miasma of unhealthy soils, the poison of unwholesome water, the effluvia of crowded work-rooms and factories, and the baneful influence of sedentary employments, it is only necessary to be forearmed with

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Dyspepsia's pangs, that rack and grind
The body, and depress the mind:
Agues, that as they go and come,
Make life a constant martyrdom;
Colics and dysenteric pains,
'Neath which the strong man's vigor wanes;
Bilious complaints, those tedious ills,
Ne'er conquered yet by drastic pills;
Dread diarrhœa that cannot be
Cured by destructive mercury;
Slow constitutional decay
That brings Death nearer, day by day;
Nervous prostration, mental gloom—
Heralds of madness or the tomb;
For these—though mineral nostrums fail—
Means of Relief at least we hail,
Hostetter's Bitters—medicine sure,
Not to prevent, alone, but cure.

In dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious complaints, constitutional and nervous debility, constipation, sea-sickness, spasms, and in all complaints of Man or Woman, proceeding from casual or inherent weakness of the body, the one great remedy and restorative is

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

To wanderers on sea or land,
From Polar shore to Tropic strand;
To households lone, in regions new,
And dwellers in great cities, too;
To soldiers in camp, fort and field,
Who need against disease a shield;
To miners, California bound,
And tillers of wet, marshy ground;
To feeble wives of fragile mould,
To young and middle-aged, and old;
To those in health, who would enjoy
Heaven's best gifts without alloy;
To all the strengthless, weak and pale,
Who droop, yet know not what they ail,
Hostetter's Bitters we present
As Health's most potent element.

If there is any value in public opinion, or any weight in medical testimony, the very best and safest Tonic, Corrective and Alterative now before the world is

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

G. VENARD,
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.
HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.
Each package bears the signature of G. VENARD.

American Eloquence—Baker.

We have always believed, and still maintain, that the heroic Baker, who sleeps without a monumental shadow at Lone Mountain, was one of the most eloquent men that ever lived. Comparing his remaining speeches, none of which were committed to paper by himself, with those of other great orators, who have had an opportunity to read and revise their own productions for the admiration of posterity, we find no occasion to change or modify an opinion formed in the living presence of the man. It is true that one may be incapable of discriminating impartially while a friendly memory is still haunted with silver tones, while familiar echoes still linger in the recesses of the hills, and while the fame of another Leonidas is so fresh and dear to the hearts of freedom; but one who took no care to preserve his eloquence in letters can be judged impartially by none save those who have heard its exultant tides overflowing from the living fountain.

There are two sorts of orators: one like Demosthenes, who appeared to stand before his hearers, like a creative Deity, overwhelming them with successive splendors from an exhaustless treasury; another like Isocrates, who being weak-voiced and timid, wrote his stately periods and burning sentences for others to declaim; the one like Paul, thundering from the eminence of Mars Hill, the other like John, silently writing his sublime prophesies from the quiet Island of Patmos. If Colonel Baker—as a grateful people still love to call him in affection—ever wrote any portion of his speeches, it must have been only in detached fragments, and to be immediately destroyed; for, so far as we know, he has left none in manuscript. Another great orator, no less familiar and dear to the people of California, Thomas Starr King, complained that he "could not think on his feet." Baker never seemed to think otherwise, and five minutes before beginning one of his great orations, did not seem to be thinking at all.

His wonderful reliance on the inspiration of time and circumstance was related by a young lawyer, since in the Confederate army, but always an enthusiastic friend and admirer of the Republican orator. An important case was to come before a court at nine o'clock in the morning. It involved the large property of a family of orphan children. Their attorney, who alone understood the case, fell sick on the previous evening, and the friends of the children were in dismay. No other attorney could be induced to undertake the case without time to study its peculiarities; the papers relevant and necessary to be understood, could not be examined in a night, and the lawyer was too ill to render any assistance. At length Baker was thought of. He was found engaged in playing billiards. He repaired to his sick friend's room, obtained a few minutes interview, together with a huge bundle of papers, and promised to attend to the case. About ten o'clock the parties interested became uneasy and went to search for Baker. They found him still playing billiards; but at their earnest entreaty, he returned to his office, and having re-assured and got rid of his anxious clients, went home to bed. Next morning at nine o'clock, he appeared in court, with the bundle of papers under his arm. They had never been opened! Baker listened to the statements of the opposite counsel, went out and smoked a cigar, after which he returned and began a five-hour speech of unexampled splendors. The case was suited to his genius, and he knew it from the first—a pleading for orphan children. He required neither law nor evidence, but flung wide open the flood-gates of sympathy and eloquence, and the exultant currents rushed in with overwhelming power. The court forgot a nice adjustment of the scales, jurymen shed tears, spectators uttered subdued applause, and the case was won.

It is commonly said that Baker's greatest speech on this side was made at Forest Hill. We think not. His most wonderfully electric utterances were given in the American Theatre, having returned from Oregon a Senator of the United States. That attainment had been the summit of his ambition; for that, he said, he would be willing to give five millions in gold, in order that he might make one great speech and then be willing to die. That eminence he did attain as no other man could have possessed it, in the wilds of Oregon where he did not belong, Orpheus-like, by the melody of his utterances; that immortal speech he did make in reply to the traitor Benjamin; that early succeeding death he did die, as is recorded on the flowing scroll of national glory, but, alas! not on any monument corresponding with the votive grandeur of his death!

None but Macaulay could adequately describe the dramatic scene at the American Theatre. Walking with great difficulty through the great crowd of manly intelligence and womanly beauty, which even the vast stage contained, he stood during the most exultant moment of his life before what seemed to be a mighty aggregation of human heads, and after the applause had subsided, began: "Now, when I should make the best speech of my life, I am sure I am going to make the very worst." But, far from it. The inspiration of thousands of expectant faces, the recollection of his triumph over prejudice, since the time when he had been driven from San Francisco, an exile to Carson Valley, the attainment of the highest honors which his adopted country could bestow on him, aroused emotions which had never before been awake, and the speech that followed was of supernatural power and beauty. We do not believe that more glorious tones ever rung upon American air. "Years, years ago," he said, "I took my stand by Freedom, and where the feet of my youth were planted, there my manhood and my age shall march," and suiting the action to the word, he strode along the foot-lights, back and forth, pouring out consecutive, and cumulative torrents electrical with living fire, until a consumptive invalid on the stage forgot his reporting, sprang to his feet and in an unconscious frenzy, exclaimed, "You're right, Col. Baker, by G—d, we're all slaves!" For a moment all was still, and the poor man, abashed, sank back on his chair, as pallid as a ghost. But the catastrophe of the drama had culminated, and the audience broke forth with indescribable applause. Every fibre of the building seemed to shake. Every one in the audience was beside himself. Ladies stood up and waved their handkerchiefs and clapped their hands, until further demonstration became impossible. Meanwhile, the triumphant orator stood still, with his arms folded, like a mighty sorcerer surveying the shadowy multitude of his incantations. Resuming again, another convulsive enthusiasm overcame the people, and they broke forth as before, in long continued applause, and from that to the end of the speech, did not wholly recover their composure. We doubt whether human oratory, in any age or anywhere in the world, ever produced more of its sublimer effects, or made a more lasting and ineffaceable impression upon the minds of the people. For ourselves, every incident of that memorable night, every impressive gesture and attitude of the orator, every oratund declamation is photographed upon memory, as it is said the lightning sometimes transfers the images of things to the sightless orbs of the dead. Since the dazzling phenomena of that night the splendors of others' oratory are to the thoughts and manner of the heroic dead what the burnished iron pillar is to the sculptured column of the Pantheon, what the plaster-cast is to the statuary of Rome.

"Hither shall come the pale maiden from the tearful abodes of sorrow; hither shall be borne the stricken warrior from the bloody fields of freedom," said the prophetic Baker, more than ten years ago, at the dedication of Lone Mountain Cemetery, where now lie under one lowly tablet and in one illustrious community of dust, Cicero and Leonidas, Cæsar and Aristides, all that was perishable of peaceful Eloquence and the undaunted spirit of War, with the everlasting anthem of the Ocean for his requiem and the Genius of Freedom for his mournful Niobe.—American Flag.

INTERMENT OF SOLDIERS.—The following statement exhibits the number of interments of Union soldiers made by Lieutenant-Colonel Moore, A. Q. M., up to July 30, 1866: In the cemeteries in and around Washington, 19,815; Andersonville, Ga., 12,912; Hampton, Va., 3,141; Belle Isle, Va., 155; Ball's Bluff, Va., 51; Winchester, Va., 1,630; Malvern Hill, Va., 1,077; Seven Points, Va., 746, to be increased to 1,800; Fredericksburg, Va., 2,425, to receive probably 15,000 bodies; Congressional Cemetery, D. C., 151; Holywood, Va., 237; Oakwood, Va., 210. The total number of bodies interred by the burial corps under Col. Moore is estimated at 49,112, and it is supposed that 50,000 bodies yet remain to be removed and interred. The average expense attending the re-interment of each body is eight dollars.

JULIA DEAN HAYNE GETS A DIVORCE.—The Salt Lake Telegraph of September 12th says:

Yesterday, in the case of Julia Dean Hayne or Arthur P. Hayne, in divorce, a decree was made dissolving the bonds of matrimony hitherto existing between them. The case came on for hearing during the last June term of the Court, and was held under advisement until the present sitting. We are no lawyer, but the marriage with Mr. Cooper some months ago and the divorce now seem to make a rather "mixed" case. No doubt it is "all right."

The young Prince Antony de Hohenzollern, who was severely wounded at the battle of Koniggratz, died of his wounds on the 5th. He was mentioned with great honor by the King.

The Son of Napoleon the Great—Removal of his Remains.

The Paris correspondent of the New York Times says:

Since the recent mediation of the Emperor of the French, which has perhaps saved Austria from total annihilation, there is reason to believe that the desire of France to possess the ashes of the young Prince who was for a few hours Napoleon II, has been acceded to by the Emperor Francis Joseph, and that the mortal remains of the King of Rome will soon be placed beneath the dome of the Invalides, side by side with those of his illustrious father. Thus the great Napoleon and his son, separated by destiny in life, will at last be united in death. Both died in the land of exile, and neither will have found repose upon the soil of France until after many years' sleep far from her shores—one upon a rock-bound island in a distant ocean, and the other in the funeral vault of an Austrian palace.

Little is generally known in America of the last years of Napoleon II, and the present moment seems opportune to give a sketch of his brief and melancholy career.

Joseph Charles Francis Napoleon, King of Rome, Duke of Reichstadt, was born at Paris on the 20th of March, 1811. All the good fairies seemed to have assembled around his cradle, and all appeared to predict for him honors, riches and power; not one intimated a doubt of his future grandeur and lustre. Yet despite the happy presages which accompanied his birth, scarcely three years after he came into the world as the heir of Napoleon, the young Prince left France on the 2d of May, 1814, never to return during life. On arriving in the domains of his grandfather, the Emperor of Austria, his title was suppressed, the name he bore was proscribed, every fact in history which recalled the glory of his father and the humiliation of his enemies was carefully concealed from the child's knowledge, and at seven years of age the son of Napoleon became the Duke of Reichstadt.

An Imperial decree, promulgated July 22, 1818, (the 22d of July was also the date of his death) conferred upon him the title of an Austrian Duke, fixed his rank at the Court of Vienna, the arms he was to bear, the honors to which he was to be entitled, and the position he was to occupy as a member of the Imperial family of Austria. No trace of Napoleon was left, and the name itself was formally suppressed by the decree.

Afterwards, as he grew up, and learned what a hero had been his father, he suddenly awoke as from a long slumber. When he read in secret the story of Napoleon's immortal campaigns, and comprehended the glory and power to which the genius of his father had attained, it seemed to him that he had all at once entered another world, illuminated by the history of gigantic exploits.

Then, despite those who surrounded him, despite the incessant watch kept over him, he determined to know all. He obtained and eagerly devoured every work in which Napoleon's name was mentioned, and finally, when he realized how great his father had been, what humiliations had been heaped upon him, how he had died a tortured prisoner, the young Prince was filled with an intense hatred of those who had accomplished the banished soldier's long martyrdom. His indignation was also excited against the decree which deprived him of the name which he justly regarded as the most glorious of those he bore, and he immediately and resolutely signified his intention to be called Napoleon. Like his father, he was fond of the profession of arms, but his tall, thin body could not withstand the arduous exercises to which he attempted to school himself. Appointed Colonel of the Gustavus Vasa regiment, he assumed the active command, took part in every fatiguing ceremony, in all weather, and no matter how ill he was, or how much his physician remonstrated. His dreams were of glory. He studied the art of war in the numberless descriptions of his father's battles, either reading them or inducing others to recount them to him, with the map of Europe before his eyes.

He would never consent to lie down, except when his feebleness absolutely forced him to do so. He well knew that he must soon die, but he had only one regret in leaving the world, and that was to have done so little to prove himself worthy to bear the name of Napoleon. I remember having often seen, in America, an engraving representing him grasping his father's sword and lamenting his powerlessness to wield the weapon which had so long "made all Europe tremble." The phrase attributed to him may be apochryphal, as regards the strict letter of the expression, but that such were in reality his feelings cannot be doubted for an instant.

His mother, a woman whose heart seemed insensible to any ennobling emotion, and who had not the dignity to remain the widow of Napoleon—his mother wept at his bedside when the fatal moment drew near.

"Mother! mother!" he whispered, "I am dying!"

It was the 22d day of July, 1832, and these were the last words of Napoleon II., expiring in a murmur upon his lips, with his last breath. Thus died the son of the Great Captain, at the age of 21 years. Six days after his death, on the 28th, a post mortem examination of the remains was made at Schonbrunn. The following is an extract of the medical report:

"The body completely emaciated; the chest, in proportion to the body, long and narrow; the sternum flattened; the neck wasted."

He was interred at Schonbrunn with princely honors, and visitors to his tomb, at the present day, will see upon it a Latin inscription, of which the following is a translation:

> To the eternal memory
> Of JOSEPH CHARLES FRANCIS, Duke of Reichstadt;
> Son of NAPOLEON, Emperor of the French,
> And of MARIA LOUISA, Arch-Duchess of Austria;
> Born at Paris, the 20th of March, 1811,
> Died at Schonbrunn, July 22, 1832.

He had himself written an epitaph, which he wished placed upon his tomb, but which was rejected. It was brief and to the purpose!

> Here lies the son of the Great NAPOLEON!
> He was born King of Rome,
> He died an Austrian Colonel!

A THIRTY YEARS MYSTERY CLEARED UP.—Over thirty years ago there was considerable excitement in Cecil county, Maryland, on account of the disappearance of a widow lady, named Patty Polk, who resided about four miles from Elkton. She was last seen going into a thicket near her house, where two men had just passed. All search for her was fruitless. After a reasonable time had elapsed, letters of administration on her effects were issued, and in settling up the estate the administrator was unable to find a note drawn by one of the men who had been seen to go into the thicket. The note was known to have been in her possession a short time before her disappearance. This aroused the suspicion of some of the people, and the two men were arrested; but nothing could be proved against them, and they were discharged.

A number of years ago one of the suspected parties died, and last week, it is reported that the other, being very ill, sent for a minister, to whom he made known a free confession. According to popular rumor, the confession was to the effect that he, with the other party, sent word to Mrs. Polk to meet them in a certain place, where they would pay the money on the notes, and they then failed to meet her; that they saw her on the way home, and knowing that she would pass through the thicket, they went into it and laid in ambush, and as soon as she appeared one knocked her on the head with a stick of wood, killing her. They then placed her body in the midst of a wood pile, where they intended to let it remain, but it became noxious. They went to the pile with a box to remove the body, and found that the dog of the deceased had taken his place to watch over the corpse, and they were compelled to kill him before they could get the body, and that, after succeeding, they carried it in a box to where the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad was being built, and placed it in the embankment.

It is also stated that as soon as the man had made this disclosure he commenced to improve, and that he is now in a fair way to recover.

HORRID MURDERER.—Alfred L. Starkweather was hanged at Hartford, August 17th, for the murder of his mother and sister. The wretch killed them with an ax and then set the house on fire.

Com. Nutt and Minnie Warren are to be married soon. They are now in London.

SOMETHING NEW!
THE NEW LIGHT!
DANFORD'S
Atmospheric Coal Oil Gas Lamp!

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT OF SOME SORT, IS A UNIversal necessity. A Safe, Cheap and Brilliant one is a Luxury—a luxury only enjoyed heretofore by those who live in large cities where Gas is used. Years of study and much capital have been exhausted in experiments to produce a lamp wherein the ordinary Kerosene or Coal Oil could be used without a chimney, and without unpleasant odor while in use. That fruitful source of expense, trouble and annoyance, the chimney, is in DANFORD'S COAL OIL GAS LAMP avoided; it is the most perfect Lamp and will entirely supersede all other Coal Oil Lamps; it is the cheapest artificial light that can be used, yielding the light of an ordinary six foot Gas burner for less than ½ cent per hour, or double the quantity of light of an ordinary Chimney Lamp, for one third the cost. It will burn when turned down to a taper-light, ten hours for a cent, is free from smoke, can be carried from room to room and the wind will not blow it out. These LAMPS will be on exhibition and for sale at the Music and Art Gallery of Shanahan & Dufresne, corner of Morrison and First streets.

JACOB MAYER
Leased the building of me Feb. 17, time there was no such currency in vogue, and it was understood the terms were Cash. Since the date above stated, I have received the depreciated currency regularly for the rent of the CITY OF PARIS STORE

making less than two-fifths of the real amount said Mayer was to pay. He had secured the building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in Coin, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantage of the times to convert a few dol-
